2 KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

The News Review

By BRUCE CATTON

THE great ocean flight of those four dozen navy fighting planes is a magnificent spectacle and a great demonstration of the long-range striking power of the modern air force; yet it would be easy to go entirely too far in drawing lessons from the performance.

As a proof that naval warfare has been transformed by addition of a new weapon of vast potentialities, the flight is without parallel. But it does not yet prove the truth of all those excited assertions that our secure isolation is ended and that we are within easy reach of the aerial fleets of foreign powers.

A flight of this kind in mid-ocean is a great achievement, to be sure. But a great battle fleet was on duty along the route.

There were no anti-aircraft defenses to leap over, no squadrons of hostile planes to brush aside, no obligation on the four dozen pilots to return to their starting point without a stop.

X X X

In other words, this flight does not prove that a European or Asiatic power would find it simple to send an air fleet over to bomb our cities. That may be possible some day, but it certainly is not the case today.

It is rather important to keep that fact in mind. We have a preparedness group in this country which is just about as militaristic as any similar group overseas; and this group can be expected to use this navy flight as the basis for a demand that we increase our aerial armaments until they are the equal of any other such armaments on earth—on the ground that we shall not be "secure" until we do so.

A recent survey (published in the Aircraft Yearbook for 1935) shows that we rank fifth in battle planes, France, Russia, Great Britain, and Italy are ahead of us.

We have 2060 fighting planes, of which about 1600 are wholly up-to-date; and the Yearbook remarks that this is less than half the strength required to put us "on a par" with the equal footing with other powers.

X X X

But the point to remember in all this is that we don't need to be on an equal footing with these other powers. The Atlantic and Pacific oceans have not yet shrunk to the dimensions of the Great Lakes.

Our air fleet may be outclassed by four others, but it would most certainly be able to overwhelm any hostile air fleet that could actually reach our shores.

That is all an advocate of national security can ask. We don't contemplate aggressive action overseas. We can be satisfied with security at home. And this Pacific flight falls far short of proving that the airplane has been developed to the point where it destroys that security.

Editor Wilkerson Dies at Newport

Proprietor of Independent Succumbs to Heart Attack at 45

NEWPORT, Ark.—Austin C. Wilkerson, 45, editor and publisher of the daily and weekly Newport Independent, died at his home here Monday night from a heart attack. Mr. Wilkerson had been in ill health for several weeks.

Born at Evening Shade, he obtained his early newspaper experience with the Sharp County Record and the Batesville Guard. In 1915 he moved to Newport and started his newspaper.

He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Betty Joe Wilkerson; mother, Mrs. P. H. Wilkerson of Arlington, Tex.; two sisters, Mrs. W. C. Johnson and Mrs. Ray McKnight, both of Arlington, Tex.; and a brother, Claude B. Wilkerson, also of Arlington.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the St. Paul Episcopal church here.

Father of Star's Publisher Visitor

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Washburn, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., arrived at Hotel Barlow Tuesday to visit their son, Alex. H. Washburn, publisher of The Star.

Mr. Washburn retired last month after 45 years as superintendent for Metropolitan Life Insurance company, three years of which was spent in opening up the Canadian territory, at Toronto, 1897-99. From there he returned to Wilkes-Barre, where in later years became the largest district of the Metropolitan, world's largest life insurance company.

Mr. Washburn is a director of Miners National Bank of Wilkes-Barre and president of the suburban Peoples National Bank of Edinburgville.

Additional Men Sent to Fulton Flood District

Reading at Fulton Tuesday Morning Reported at 31.6 Feet

35 FEET PREDICTED

Red River to Reach Crest by Sunday or Monday, Is Forecast

Taking advantage of a slow rise and sunshine, the Hope office of the FERA dispatched additional men to the Red river flood area near Fulton Tuesday to bolster levees in anticipation of a rise to 35 feet by next Monday.

Approximately 250 men were working on a three-mile danger zone from Koonce farm to the flood gates. Koonce farm is two and a half miles below Fulton. Eighty men were sent near Dooley's ferry to protect a three-mile area.

The river at Fulton had reached 31.6 feet Tuesday morning, slightly more than a half foot since Monday. A stage of 35 feet at Fulton is predicted by J. W. Cronk, United States meteorologist, before the stream reaches its crest by Sunday or Monday.

New Record Stage Forecast

A reading of 35 feet would send the river to within six inches of the peak of spring floods of 1927.

Virtually a new levee is being thrown up for a strip of 200 yards near the Koonce home. At the Temple farm a quarter mile below Koonce relief workers were re-reinforcing the levee with sandbags and lightening it. From there to the Sampson farm, low places in the levee were being filled in.

From the Sampson farm to the flood gate, a distance of a mile, is considered the most dangerous area of the Fulton flood district.

Relief workers were in greater numbers, attempting to bolster the levee three feet higher to stave off threatened farms in that section.

Another Tourney to Be Held Sunday

Entrants Must File 18-Hole Score Before Sunday, Says Hammons

A second golf tournament among local amateurs will be staged Sunday afternoon at Hope Country club course. Coach Foy Hammons announced Tuesday.

All entries are required to qualify for 18 holes before Sunday, and file scores with Mr. Hammons.

Free instructions to local women golfers will be given at the course at 9 a. m. Saturday. First fundamentals in golf will be taught.

Coach Hammons said he would arrange a tournament among women players, the date to be announced later.

Pie Supper

A pie supper will be held Friday night at Battlefield community, 10 miles southwest of Hope, for the benefit of a community canning kitchen. Everyone is invited to attend, and urged to bring a pie.

Former Hope Pastor Weds, Mountain Home

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark.—(AP)—Miss Elizabeth Mitchell and Raymond Brunk, both of Hot Springs, Ark., were married at the Christian church here with the Rev. Mr. Brunk, father of the groom, officiating. Raymond Brunk formerly was pastor of the Christian church at Texarkana. He now is engaged in railroad work at Hot Springs, where they will make their home.

Former Hope Pastor

The Rev. Brunk was a former pastor of the Christian church in Hope before moving to Texarkana a few years ago.

F. D. to Veto Any Full Payment Bill

Word Is Passed in Official Circles on Bonus Issue Tuesday

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Word was passed in official circles Tuesday that President Roosevelt asserted that after voting the inflationary Patman bonus bill he would also reject any other proposal for full and immediate cash payment of two billion two hundred million dollars.

This disclosure shared interest with a remark by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, that he would like to see some legislation "work out and pass" after the Patman bill had been killed.

Saying that he would like to see some bonus legislation "worked out and passed" after the Patman bill has been vetoed and killed, Robinson said he would be glad to "contribute" to ward that end.

Robinson's words were regarded as significant, in view of the belief of another Democratic leader, that 72 senate votes could be marshalled for (Continued on page three)

Lee Asks $12,500 in Cotton Gin Fire

Civil Suit Scheduled to Start Tuesday Afternoon at Warren

WARREN, Ark.—(AP)—The trial case of J. A. Lee against W. C. Parker, Charles Cronce, Jesse Hutson, Thomas Crawford, Ben F. Wilson and the Continental Gin company was scheduled to begin Tuesday afternoon.

Lee charges that the gin company entered into a conspiracy with the other defendants to burn his cotton gin in April, 1934, and asks $7,500 compensatory damages and $5,000 punitive damages.

Judge Duvall Purkins disqualified himself for the trial which was to be held before Judge Martin B. Harris of Pulaski county. Hutson and Cronce have been given prison sentences in connection with the case.

The trial is scheduled to start at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

Bobcats Win 8-0 Against All Stars

Hammons' Squad Victorious in Athletic Fund Benefit Game

Coach Foy Hammons' Bobcat football team defeated an all-star aggregation, 8 to 0, under the flood lights at the high school stadium Monday night.

The high school squad scored a safety soon after the opening whistle, and then counted for a touchdown in the second quarter.

The all-stars, led by Pete Brown, were outplayed throughout the first half, never seriously threatening to score. The all-stars showed greater punch and team work in the last half and outplayed their opponents.

A fair-sized crowd witnessed the battle. Proceeds totaled over $60. Funds will go to repair equipment for the 1935 high school team.

Coach Hammons said Tuesday that he was well-pleased with the showing of his athletes, especially Holly, Reese, Moore and K. B. Spears in the line. The backfield, composed of Brewster, Spears, Cargile, and Stone, showed up well, considering only two weeks of training.

Japanese Use Motor Trucks

TIENTSIN, China.—(AP)—The Chinese press reported Tuesday 200 Japanese troops traveling in motor trucks have crossed the Great Wall and reached T-unhwa in the demilitarized zone of North China. The reports said the troops were "chasing a group of Chinese residents who oppose the Japanese in Southern Jehol."

Marry at Leisure, Repent in Haste, Is Rule for Heiresses

Ladies Born Under Dollar Sign Find Life a Rough Road

Trouble Seems to Result Whether Husband's Prince or Pauper

10-CENT PRINCESS

Barbara Hutton Snatched Alexis From Wife—Now Wife May Get Him Back

Young ladies born under the dollar sign seem to travel a rougher matrimonial road than most. Heiresses who have plunged into the matrimonial whirl with poor but personable young men are described in this, the fifth article in a series of six on "The Marriage Scene."

By Mary Margaret McBride
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—Seemingly there is all too rarely a middle ground for the average American heiress to great wealth. If she is not marrying her father's chauffeur, her mother's riding partner, or somebody she picked up by the way when she went on a hiking trip, she is tying herself and her millions, temporarily, at least, to a European title. And frequently, the result is the same, either way. Whether she weds prince or pauper, she often ends up with an annulment, a separation or a divorce having spent a neat sum of money.

Barbara Hutton, the ten-cent princess, who recently got her divorce from Prince Alexis Mdivani, is the most conspicuous recent example of this tendency of very rich girls to make matrimonial alliances that fail to stick. In spite of the fact that her friend Louise Van Alen, of Astor lineage, had not been able to make a go of marriage with Prince Alexis, Barbara insisted upon trying it, too.

She had known Alexis since she was fifteen, she said, but one day she suddenly fell in love with him. After that there was no stopping her. Parental opposition only made her more determined. The warnings of friends fell on deaf ears. Yet hardly was the link dry on reports of the wedding ceremony than there began to be rumors of discord. The marriage ended in Reno and now Barbara has again acquired a titled husband—Count von Haugwitz-Reventlow of Denmark.

Linked With Prince

The rumor that she was in connection with this switching of partners is that Louise Van Alen may take Prince Alexis again. If she should, it would undoubtedly be over the protests of her family and friends, most of whom felt that she went through quite enough the first time.

An heiress to two great fortunes who made a mesalliance from the point of view of her friends, has apparently found contentment and peace thereby. This is Mathilde McCormick, Oser of Chicago, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, who married Max Oser, her Swiss riding master. These two and their family of children, live quietly abroad. It was Mathilde's young brother, Power, by the way, who married the former Anne Stillman, mother of his chum, Bud Stillman.

Janet Snowden, oil heiress, set a record for speed when she married the Prince di Spizzigano don Francesco Caravita of Italy one day, married him the next, which was Thursday, and by the following Monday had announced her intention to get her marriage annulled. Later, she got a Mexican divorce and married William Sherman GBL, broker, who had once been a reporter.

Anne Cannon Reynolds who was first married briefly to the late Smith Reynolds of tobacco millions fame, after her divorce from him tried matrimony with F. Brandon Smith, Jr., a Chicagoan, who was the son of a wealthy towel manufacturer. Recently Brandon Smith sued his father-in-law for alienating Anne's affections and was awarded a verdict of $125,000 by a sympathetic jury.

Virginia Ewing Gates, twenty-two-year-old daughter of Dr. Thomas Gates of Philadelphia, president of the University of Pennsylvania, went on a hitch-hiking trip in Wyoming and along the way fell in with Daniel McCafferty, one-time wrestler, in hard times, a taxicab driver. Daniel also was hitch-hiking and the two proceeded on the way together.

Taking on this and that they fell in (Continued from page two)

Nine Others Are Injured on Fulton Road Late Monday

Barcelle Nichols and Rosa Huntley, Negroes, Injured Fatally

FOUR IN HOSPITAL

Tommy Parks, White Man, Among Victims of Auto-Truck Collision

Two persons were dead here Tuesday and four others remained in Josephine hospital with injuries sustained in an auto-truck accident near Sheppard 10 miles west of Hope at 5:30 p. m. Monday.

The dead are:

BARCELLE NICHOLS, 23, negro woman.

ROSA HUNTLEY, 25, negro woman.

The Nichols woman was killed almost instantly. The Huntley woman died in Julia Chester hospital at 6 a. m. Tuesday of injuries about the face, head and legs.

A total of 11 were injured. All the victims were negroes except one, Tommy Parks of McKamie, driver of the truck. Three ambulances brought the injured to hospitals.

Recovering in Hospital

Those that remained in Josephine hospital Tuesday were:

Tommy Parks, suffering with head, chest, foot and arm injuries.

Murphy Harris, negro of McKamie, nose practically cut off.

Nine of the 11 victims were brought to Josephine hospital. Those released after receiving treatment for injuries were:

Annie Nesbit, negro of McKamie, gash on face and minor injuries about body.

Nathan Logan, negro of Hope, cuts on face, skinned leg and chest injuries.

Jimmie Cheatham, Hope negro, minor cuts about body.

Roy Collins, McKamie negro, cuts on chin and leg, torn legaments in left arm, chest injuries.

Charlie Turner, McKamie negro, scalp wound, skinned leg.

Those that remained in Josephine hospital were said by physicians Tuesday to be recovering.

How Accident Occurred

The truck driven by Parks and occupied by six McKamie negroes, were enroute home from Fulton, where they had been engaged in levee repair work bordering the Rube Cornelius farm on Red river. Mr. Parks was said to be in charge of the Cornelius farm.

The automobile, a Ford roadster, was said to have been driven by Nathan Logan, Hope negro, and occupied by Cheatham and the two negro women who were killed.

They were driving west toward Fulton. It was said the Logan negro attempted to pass a second car headed toward Fulton but was unable to get by before meeting the east-bound truck, the automobile crashing head-on into the truck.

The two machines were badly damaged. Some of the negroes riding on the truck were thrown to the pavement. Parks, driver, was pinned in the seat when the engine of the truck was driven back against him from the terrific impact. Neither machine overturned, nor left the road.

Two Hope Furniture company ambulances brought the injured here. The Nichols woman was dead upon arrival. A Hot Springs ambulance which was passing the scene, brought the balance of the victims to hospitals.

Sheriff Jim Bearden made a preliminary investigation of the accident late Monday. No arrests were made. Just what further probe of the accident, if any, was not announced Tuesday.

New Raids Net 4 More Bootleggers

Total of Eight Arrested by Sheriff Bearden's Forces

Four more alleged moonshiners were arrested here Monday afternoon by Sheriff Jim Bearden's forces. The latest raid brought the total up to eight within the past three days.

Those arrested Monday afternoon were negroes, Dennis Williams operator of the Northside Beer Garden, and George Scott, taken together at 3 p. m. They were charged with selling and possessing liquor on which no tax had been paid.

In the second "catch" which was staged at 6 p. m., Viola McPadden and Fred Moore were arrested at their residences at Sixth and Hazel streets. They also were charged with selling and possessing liquor on which no tax had been paid. In lieu of bond, the quartet was taken to Washington and lodged in jail.

Brighter Outlook for Hamilton Depositors

An encouraging business outlook for 1935 was indicated in a recently issued report of the Hamilton Depositors Corporation, of Denver, Colo.

Their report showed substantial increases, both in earnings and in business volume, for the first quarter of 1935 over the same period of 1934. Some companies showing gains as great as 48 per cent for this period.

The report also told of several new developments among these companies. The Eastman Kodak company has announced a new attachment for cameras and projectors, whereby color photography is possible with ordinary equipment. The DuPont company has just completed development of a process for manufacturing rubber from acetylene. This new rubber is unaffected by oil or gasoline.

Doctors Still Seeking Causes of Lambe Back.

The lame back you get at times isn't something you should pass off merely as somewhat of a nuisance. All sorts of causes will explain this trouble, and yet there are many cases which just can't be explained by any of the modern points of view.

Your doctor may take X-ray pictures and make all the usual examinations known, testing your ability to move your back into various positions, and still he may be unable to determine exactly why your back hurts you. Recently some Boston investigators found that a certain ligament connecting the large bone of the pelvis with the bone of the leg is very tight in some people.

Some of these people complain of a snapping sensation of the hip when they move the thigh and leg. This snapping sensation, they claim, is due to the pulling of this tight ligament over the head of the bone. Because this ligament is tight, the sufferers complain of pain in the back and they describe it as a sensation of strain in the lower part of the back. Occasionally they have sciatica or severe pain in the rear of the thigh along with the back pain.

The Boston doctors have worked out some tests to show whether the pain in any certain cases is due to a tight ligament of this character. Of course, the condition is treated by doing everything possible to release the tension on the ligament, stretching it gradually by use of certain exercises. The simplest exercise is one in which you stand with the side that is affected about 2½ feet away from a table or some other convenient object which you grasp with one hand. Then bend the hip that is affected toward the table as far as you can. Hold this position for a few seconds and then, after a rest, repeat the exercise.

Do this five times the first day, and increase once each day until the exercise is done 25 times twice a day. Some cases are so severe that they are not benefited by this exercise, and in those cases, in which there is pain in the sciatic nerve along with the pain in the back, operative procedures may be necessary.

It should be pointed out again that in every case of pain in the back is due to this cause. Sometimes pain in the back is caused by flat feet, sometimes by bad posture; sometimes by conditions of the organs within the abdomen.

It is important to know the cause, if that can be determined, and to treat the condition accordingly.

George V, Symbol of England's Unity—John Buchan Tells the Story of An Eventful Reign

To write a biography of King George V is simply to retell the history of modern England. The man almost seems to be a symbol rather than a personality. He has no story of his own; his story is England's. That is why there is so little of George V and so much of England in John Buchan's new book, "The People's King."

Mr. Buchan reviews King George's reign—one of the most critical and eventful periods in all English history—and finds that it has seen no diminution of royalist sentiment.

The throne, in fact, is more secure now than it was 25 years ago.

Buchan reports that the tie which binds people to king is composed of very real and heartfelt affection, a report which recent accounts of the public celebration would seem to substantiate.

Why this should be so becomes clear as you read this book.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Teach Child to Read Nature in Summer—Confined All Winter, He Needs Live Contacts

More and more we are learning to live by proxy, that is to say, we depend on books and plays and lectures to amuse us. The trend is to enjoy life by hearing what other people have done, and by thrilling to other people's experiences.

A dream world at best and a world of escapes. All this sounds pedantic and stiff, but it is the truth. I think it wise to face it because of the children. Through the winter they were shut in and had to depend on vicarious adventure in books and movie houses, to feel they were living deeply.

Can Conflict Nature Now? Now it is spring, with all summer ahead and they have an opportunity to live life at first hand. Naturally, they will go in for picking wild flowers if they live near enough to the country—and for outdoor games no matter where they live. Later there will be picnics and swimming and hikes.

Even that isn't enough. A child can do all these things and enjoy them in a spontaneous sort of way but still feel he is missing something romantic. Our children are too artificial minded to begin with. They could not live today without being so. They are conditioned to think there is a better world off somewhere that they could not think of touching. The great truth is that they are part of the world; that their bit is as important as Peter Pan's or Huckleberry Finn's, or Shirley Temple's or Jackie Cooper's, never occurs to them.

There is a way to make almost any child feel the grip and importance of his own life and the actual romance of his surroundings if we but take the time.

Birds, Bees and Plants I speak of the romance of knowing what things are that one touches every day. The tree in the yard, the two down the street, or the ones in the park. The flowers, their habits of growing, and certainly their names. Birds? Birds alone are enough to occupy a summer. Crows? They all begin and end somewhere. Ponds, fish, clouds, sunsets! There are so many things to which a child's interest may be directed. Even a city street is an open book.

Once a child does see his little world with intelligent eyes it becomes more real. He stops accepting—and just looking at things on top. When he sees the "why" of the most ordinary things he ceases being an automaton moving without satisfaction or thrill. Sometimes I feel that the first book robbed mankind of something. Let us not inoculate the children too much with this "second-hand" virus. Let them learn to look at pictures never painted, to read in books never written—their own surroundings.

Rays of Hope in Suntan Dilemma.

Modern suntan preparations are a far cry from the old varieties that washed off in the sun and rarely didn't prevent burning anyway. These new types stay on for hours, allow you to get a smooth, even coat of tan with no streaks of redness and, in addition, are good for the skin.

Whether you get a cream or a lotion, remember that it should be applied before you expose your complexion to blazing sunshine. Put it on legs, arms and back as well as neck and face.

If you are one who takes along a lunch and spends an entire day on the sand, apply a new layer every three hours. You can't expect any cream to perform miracles, and asking that one stay on longer than half love and as they neared Moscow, Idaho, Daniel said "Let's get married!" Virginia thought it was a good idea and so they hunted up a Methodist minister to perform the ceremony. In this case, the stern parent deviated from custom. Virginia's father not only telegraphed his blessing but promised to continue the bride's allowance.

Kaletka Mulvihill's romance was much more involved. Kaletka is the daughter of the rich Thomas J. Mulvihill, Pittsburgh oil official. She met Tommy Green, truck driver, on summer's night and forgot all about her engagement to a young man whose father was Speaker of the House of the Philippine legislature. The romance waxed and after a party a few weeks later, Kaletka and Tommy decided to get married. They routed out a minister at three in the morning to say the fateful words. Later that day, Kaletka remembered her fiancé and also conveniently recalled that she had used the wrong name in her license application. So she decided to get the marriage annulled. When lost from her former fiancé had married somebody else and Kaletka also had a new interest in life.

Elopement Balks Parents Sylvia Martin, nineteen, daughter of an English-millionaire, and Robert Ezequiel, Greenwich, Conn., hair dresser, eloped when Sylvia's parents refused to let them have a conventional wedding. Sylvia who was attending finishing school nearby, met Robert in the beauty parlor.

When the rich Mrs. William K. Dick married the considerably younger Enzo Fiermonte, the fighter, there were many predictions that it wouldn't last. But the new Mrs. Fiermonte thought it would. However, when Enzo went to Italy, his former wife claimed him for and awhile the American Mrs. Fiermonte, who was Mrs. John Jacob Astor before she was Mrs. Dick, was left wondering whether her friends had been right. Later, a reconciliation was arranged and the pair are now traveling amicably in Europe.

One suntan preparation, done up in a handsome jar, not only prevents burning, but really acts as a nourishing cream. This keeps away redness and blisters and makes the skin soft and satiny. It's greaseless and, after you swim, can be used as a foundation for makeup.

If you should happen to neglect to use a suntan cream before you go to a beach and, as a result, get badly burned, see a physician at once. Serious burns from heat sun really need medical attention. Minor cases, of course, should be treated exactly as any other burn. Ask your druggist for a tube of something that will heal the scorched spots and leave no scars.

Summer Sweethearts

By Mabel McElhott © 1935, NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY KATHARINE STRYKHURST, beautiful, 23, is restless and discontented with the useless round of social activities that make up her life. She rides daily with MICHAEL HEATHERBOLT, who runs a riding club, and SALLY MOON, local coquette also enrolled at the club for riding lessons. KATHARINE, riding with Michael, is thrown from her horse. Shocked but not seriously injured, she is taken to the home of VIOLET MERSEY, a friend of her mother's. VIOLET, a doctor's daughter, comes to see her daughter. Mrs. Mersey welcomes her as an old acquaintance.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XI

"WE meet again," Violet Mersey had said lightly to the handsome, portly gentleman who had invaded her prim little sitting room with his white paint and polished old tables and bright chintzes.

Victor Strykhurst opened his eyes quite widely at this. "Violet! But this is extraordinary. My wife said . . ."

"What did she tell you? Sit down, Victor. Katharine is splendid. You may go up in a minute. But first I'd like to talk to you."

"Of course, of course." He sat down comfortably in one of the deep-plush chairs, glancing around him approvingly. "But I never knew you lived in Luncheon, Violet!"

"We've been here almost seven years."

"I knew you'd married, of course. Saw a bit about it in the papers." Her dark eyes were rather enigmatic. "You didn't write to wish me joy. I—I rather thought you would."

He touched his full lips with the corners of a fine white handkerchief. "Katharine's mother died that year," he said rather hollowly. "Yes, I remember. Your daughter is a lovely creature, Victor. Does she remind you of me at that age?"

"Oh?" Victor Strykhurst's color deepened a trifle. He glanced appreciatively in the direction of the staircase.

"Don't worry," Violet went on softly. "Her door is closed. She can't hear. I was Katharine's age just 17 years ago, Victor. I was 20 when I went to work in your office."

"Is it possible it's that long?" murmured the man, exhaling a deep breath.

"I was rather like her," murmured the woman with the tired dark eyes, staring out across the darkened garden. "I had the same prickly-pear attitude in regard to men . . . oh, yes, I've talked to Katharine today rather a lot. I've found out more about her, perhaps, than you yourself know."

HER tone held a subtle hint of mystery in it. The man glanced at her apprehensively. "I know you're wondering what this is all about," said Mrs. Mersey, rousing herself to speak to a slightly brisker tone. "Just this—the child is very definitely unhappy."

"Unhappy? My daughter?" There was injury in the man's tone. "Impossible! You were always an imaginative girl, Vi. Katharine has everything in the world. Why should she be unhappy?" Mrs. Mersey shrugged her slender shoulders. "I met the second Mrs. Strykhurst for the first time today, Victor. He had the grace to flush. "Bertine's been splendid with Katharine. She's very executive. She took her in hand . . . "Exactly!" Mrs. Mersey's tone was dry. "Katharine needs a lot of love, sympathy and understanding," she pursued a moment later. "Or—well, you know how it was with me. She may go off the deep end . . ."

"I haven't the faintest notion what you mean!" The man's annoyance showed in every syllable. "I mean you may expect her to find sympathy—or love—wherever she can find it."

"Oh, Tommyrot!" "I did," reminded the woman with rather a bitter smile. "My home was unhappy. I believed the first pretty story a man told me. You may remember . . ."

He looked as if the reminder were to him a painful one. Violet Mersey rose, as if terminating the interview. "Well, that's really all I wanted to say, Victor. Go on up now. First door to the right at the head of the stairs."

His tread echoed pompously through the house. The woman, left alone, stared around her for a moment, as though rousing herself from a dream into which she had fallen. "Seventeen years," murmured the woman, half to herself. She settled herself with a book, but her gaze wandered from the pages.

"WELL, well!" Victor Strykhurst came downstairs briskly, rubbing his hands together. "Katharine's in fine shape. We were in luck to come off so easily. Don't you think I could take her off with me tonight?" "The doctor advised letting her stay till morning," Violet Mersey smiled at him. "You'd rather get her out of my house, wouldn't you?"

"Nonsense, nonsense! I am eternally indebted to you for your kindness to Katharine!" "I'm not going to tell her anything about—us," said the woman with deliberation.

"Naturally, you wouldn't. You're a most sensible woman, Violet. I always said so . . ."

"Not sensible enough!" A sardonic touch to her voice now. "That is, I'll not say a word, on one condition!"

He stared. "And that?" "That you let her come to see me occasionally. That you don't attempt to wear her away from me. I like the child. I've taken a great fancy to her. I've two of my own now, Victor, you see."

"Really! But of course you must be friends with Katharine. Why not?"

"There may be another objection to that," commented Violet Mersey dryly. "Your wife . . ."

"Bertine is all right. She means well. It's not so easy, you know, to raise another woman's child."

Violet Mersey smiled to herself. She could almost hear the second Mrs. Strykhurst's voice. He had been told that many, many times. "I agree. I had a stepmother myself. Looking back now, I can see that sometimes she meant well . . ."

"You're very cozy here." His eyes roamed around the sitting room. "Stan inherited it from his uncle," the woman told him. "I married Stan Mersey, the illustrator. "Interesting," murmured the man, at a loss. "Well, well, Violet, I must be getting back. My wife will wonder if something has happened."

She allowed him to clasp her slender hand in his fleshy one. "And—and we didn't know each other before, Victor!" "Right you are!" There was relief in the words.

KATHARINE came down the stairs slowly the following morning.

"You're all right?" Violet's eyes sought hers anxiously. Outside Bertine sat at the wheel of the big car. Ellen, with a suitcase, followed her young mistress.

"Oh, I'm perfectly fine. Just have to get my land legs again." Sybil and Diana were on the edge of the group, their long legs brown and slim under the brief shorts of their white play suits.

"Do come again to see us, Miss Katharine. Please do!" "Oh, I will! And there must be another puppy for the basket, mustn't there? A nice quiet one who will stay at home when he's told to?"

"Oh, yes, yes," they chorused, dancing up and down.

Bertine smiled stiffly, her company smile. She climbed out to assist Ellen, who was helping Katharine in.

"Thank you ever so much, Mrs. Mersey. My husband and I are eternally grateful."

Katharine waved to them until the car disappeared out of sight, around the bend.

"Mummy, who was the fattest man who came after we went to bed last night?" Sybil's wistful, round face with its long golden mane was lifted to her mother's.

"Oh, you bad ones, you were supposed to be asleep!"

"We peeked," Sybil said confidently. "We heard the car stop and saw him come up the walk. Was that Miss Katharine's daddy and was he nice?"

"Very nice," said Violet absently. Diana pounced upon her. "Mummy, you're not listening. I can always tell when you're not listening. You use such a faraway voice."

"Oh, do I? But I was, really, this time. Sybil asked if Katharine's father were nice and I said yes, he was."

"But sort of puffy, Mummy, wasn't he? It wasn't quite dark and we got a good look at him. Not nearly so good-looking as Miss Katharine. Don't you think she's beautiful, Mummy? Sort of like a movie star?"

"Yes, I do. She's really lovely." "Shall I ever be that lovely, do you suppose. If I stop biting my nails and things?" Sybil asked gravely.

"I think very likely. Look, it we want to get down to the village to get things for lunch we'd better start."

Violet wheeled the little car out and the two hopped into it.

"Mummy, what were you muttering to yourself just now?" She fastidiously dark eyes at them. "Just a song none of you knew used to sing. The words of it, I mean. Don't remember the tune."

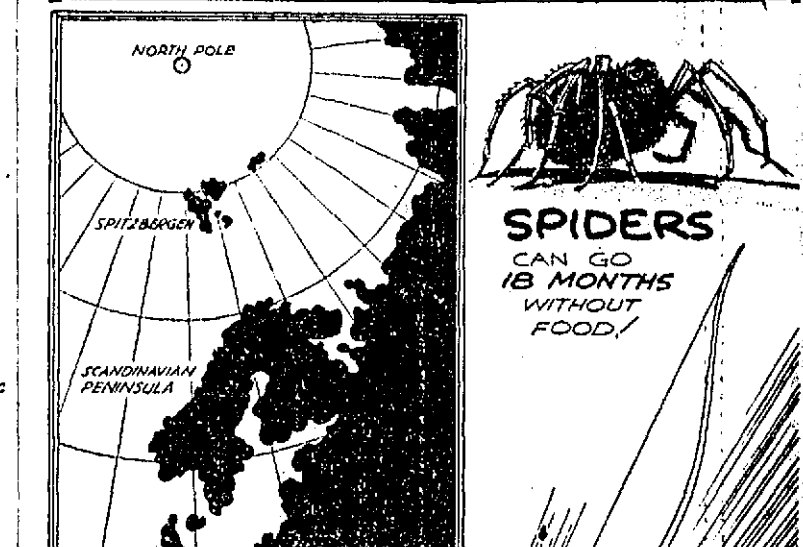

"What were they, Mummy?" Violet answered: "Oh, how I laugh, when I think how I cried about you!" (To Be Continued)

Beats Steve Brodie Leap and Lives

The glory that was Steve Brodie's is dimmed, the record he made in his famed Brooklyn bridge leap shattered. Weighed with 25 pounds of tools, Joe Tomassovici plunged 150 feet—15 feet better than Steve's mark—off the new Mississippi river bridge above New Orleans, as indicated at the right, and lives to cheerfully tell his tale. The vet crust bridge man, shown in a New Orleans hospital, hurried from the span as a cable swung at him, kept his head as he spun down, and swam until rescued, despite broken ribs.

Woodford Loses in Federal Appeal

Former U. S. Disbursing Officer's Conviction Is Affirmed

LITTLE ROCK—Conviction of Edward Woodford, former United States property and disbursing officer of the Arkansas National Guard, on two charges of mishandling government funds, was affirmed by the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals Friday. Federal officers here were advised Monday.

Woodford's trial in federal court here last fall was conducted before Federal Judge Andrew Miller of Fargo, N. D., after Federal Judge John E. Martineau had disqualified himself. Woodford was convicted on two counts of an indictment charging misuse of government money, and was acquitted on a third. Five remaining counts were dismissed. A second indictment containing 11 counts is pending.

Miss Ruth Taylor and nine home economic club girls represented Hope High School Saturday at the State Home Economics clubs meeting in Little Rock.

During the morning Miss Frances Bailey, president of Arkansas Home Economics association extended greetings to the visitors. Talks were made by Miss Druella Kent and Miss Alma Keys.

Sarah Lou Ledbetter, Hope Home Economics club president for 1935-36 was elected state president for the coming year.

A luncheon was enjoyed at the Peacock tea room when Beatrice Gordon of Hope, acted as toastmaster. Alice Louise Wallace gave a talk during the luncheon concerning the work of the Hope club.

During the afternoon session Helen Hollamon, president of Hope Ec club, gave an annual report of the Hope club.

Those others attending from Hope were Kathryn Middlebrooks, Audra Porterfield, Mabel Barnum, Pauline M. Jones, and Claudia Whitworth.

some more flexible bonus proposal far more than enough to override a veto.

A move has been planned by senate supporters to attach a rider to some pending legislation, giving the president the alternative of paying the bonus by borrowing, by issuing new money, or out of the $4,880,000 work-relief fund.

Chairman Harrison of the Senate Finance Committee, which handled the bonus issue in the senate, has advanced a compromise measure which he said the president would approve. It contemplated partial payment of the adjusted service certificates, allowing veterans to receive the present value of their holdings. On a rough average this would amount to about $700 on a $1,000 certificate, provided no money had been borrowed on it.

Mr. Roosevelt listened unbendingly to a plan that he withhold a veto from the Patman bill. The delegation of Patmanites left the White House convinced that he would deliver his veto message Wednesday.

Matching Price of Japanese Goods

A vivid argument for making sure that American goods, rather than Japanese, are bought is on exhibit in the Senate Building at Washington, D. C. Senator Jesse H. McCarroll of Rhode Island is looking over the exhibit, which shows that American and Japanese matches sell at the same retail price in spite of 33 cents a gross margin in the wholesale price in favor of the Japanese products.

PWA Wages Fixed

average of $25 a month, with clothing, food and board. State highway departments, subject to approval of the Bureau of Public Roads, are to retain the right to fix wages for their projects, while the work relief act requires payment of prevailing wages on federal building construction.

Prevailing wages are now paid the 2,500,000 who have jobs under the relief administration. The average, however, is $29.50 a month because they are allowed to work only long enough to provide for their families' needs.

Hopkins' aides said the wage schedules would apply on all other work both those carried out under contract and by "force account," without contracts. Contractors therefore will pay the wages outlined, they said.

In contrast to the PWA prevailing wage rates, providing three zones with only two classes of labor, skilled and unskilled, the new schedule divided the country into four areas, with four types of labor, unskilled, intermediate, skilled, and technical and professional.

PWA wages (higher in some localities to conform to union labor contracts), have ranged from 40 cents to 50 cents an hour for unskilled labor and from $1 an hour to $1.20 for skilled. On the basis of a 30-hour week and 130-hour month, this provided $2 a month as the lowest payment for common labor, and $156 as the highest for skilled.

Longer Hours, Less Pay
In every instance—with the exception of an undisclosed number to be put in the two new classifications of intermediate and technical and professional—the new work schedule calls for longer hours and less pay.

An unskilled laborer, depending upon the size of the town and the area where he is working, will get from $19 to $35 a month for a 40-hour week, instead of from $32 to $65 for a 30-hour week. Skilled workmen, who have received from $130 to $156 under PWA, can count on from $35 to $85.

Pay for intermediate workmen will be from $27 to $65, and for professional and technical employees from $39 to $94.

The president has had on his desk since last week $1,091,000,000 in projects approved by the Advisory Committee on Appropriations, but no action had been possible until wage regulations were issued for the program that he had approved, these were expected to start getting the program under way.

Some modifications in original plans were announced with the statement that except by Hopkins' "specific authorization at least 90 per cent of all persons working on a work project shall have been taken from the public relief rolls."

The president had repeated that if possible all the 3,500,000 he hopes to put to work would come from the relief rolls, but officials said the requirement could not be carried out rigidly.

The order further said no person under 16 should be employed, nor more than one from a family unless specially excepted.

Arkansas Third From Top.
In outlining the four regions, the greatest number of states were put in the highest wage group—Region 1. It grouped the New England, Middle Atlantic, Lake states, Mountain and Pacific states and set minimum and maximum monthly salaries at: Unskilled $40 to $55; intermediate $45 to $65; skilled $55 to $85; professional and technical $61 to $94.

The next highest group—Region 2—included Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. The salaries: Unskilled $32 to $45; intermediate $38 to $58; skilled $44 to $72; professional $48 to $75.

Region three comprised Arkansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas and Virginia. The monthly earnings: Unskilled $21 to $35; intermediate $30 to $52; skilled $38 to $63; professional $42 to $75.

The lowest salaries were set for region 4—Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee. The scale: Unskilled $19 to $39; intermediate $27 to $49; skilled $35 to $68; professional $39 to $75.

Progress

Successful share-cropping depends very largely upon management, time and weather conditions. The outlook for the industrial share-cropper appears to be more promising today than at any time in recent years.

The following is a summary showing remarkable progress made so far this year by a partial list of the companies underlying Hamilton Trust Shares.

Air Reduction — Earned $1.49 first quarter 1935 against $1.18 first quarter 1934. Increase 26%.

American Radiator — 1200 men being put to work. Baltimore plant in full operation.

Eastman Kodak — Revolutionary color attachments for cameras and projectors makes possible new color photography. Enormous possibilities.

General Electric — Earned 19 cents first quarter 1935 against 13 cents first quarter 1934. Increase 46%. Also secured $1,750,000 in new contracts.

DuPont — Succeeded in developing new process for manufacture of rubber called Duprene. Enormous possibilities. New $8,000,000 addition to Richmond Va. plant just completed.

Otis Elevator — 1935 volume stepping ahead of 1934. April best month in years.

Sears Roebuck — Sales 12 weeks ending April 23, 1935 greater by 25.7% than corresponding period of 1934.

"THE LAST ADVERTISEMENT WAS PRINTED YESTERDAY"

*What Would the World
Be Like If
It Were True?*

THE last advertisement was printed yesterday. You have cut it out and put it away to show your grandchildren. With it, a way of living as you knew it, has passed forever.

Tonight you will want to see a movie. You pull up to one—saw it last week. At another—but no, you don't like So-and-So's acting. Let's go home. It's too much gas and time to waste on a show. Next month half the theaters will close. Poor attendance.

Tomorrow you will want some groceries. You will go to the nearest grocery store and buy some. Rib roast, perhaps, and lima beans. You won't hear until tomorrow night at the bridge table that the store just next door was having a "special" on rib roast and lima beans. Pretty soon your husband will wonder why the food bills are so high. The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Next month is Aunt Jane's birthday. Well, if you think I'm going to spend half a day tramping from store to store looking for a gift that I used to find by turning a page—can't afford gifts anyway. We're spending money like water and living like poor folks...

Old car's wearing out. Can't afford a new one... Chevies and V-8's are both $1600... demand's fallen off... they've had to up prices to meet plant expenses. Most of the others have closed down... don't know how the government will feed all the new unemployed.

Fellow in Milwaukee is inventing an air conditioner to sell for $50. No one will hear of it. You will never see it. What is air conditioning anyway? The last advertisement was printed yesterday.

Advertising has brought us many things. Finer cars, better homes, silly fads and wonderful inventions that have made life easier—and longer. Advertising is no unmixed blessing. But it has helped give America a standard of living unmatched in any other place and time. That standard of living should persist as long as people have wants to fill and money to spend and eyes to read with.

It will persist only so long as the presses keep rolling.

Gulf Places New Motor Oil on Mart

Low-Priced Premium Oil Goes on Sale at Gulf Filling Stations

A new medium quality motor oil that will sell for 25c a quart was announced Tuesday by the Gulf Refining Company. It will be sold by all service stations at the "Sign of the Orange Seal" in tamper-proof, refinery-sealed cans, as well as in bulk.

This new lubricant, Gulf-lube, is made by a scientific method of oil refining, known as the Multi-sol process. The process, although considered by scientists to be the finest of the several new selective solvent processes for refining oil, is actually simple to understand. Two cleansing fluids are used which act as "chemical policemen" in the oil. These separate the desirable qualities from the natural impurities. When they have performed their so-called "third degree," out comes the pure paraffine portion which is then thoroughly de-waxed and filtered.

The development of this process grew out of the great demand for a low-priced premium quality oil that would be capable of better withstanding the high speeds of the present-day motor car. For years, Gulf engineers have been keeping pace with the rapid strides made in automotive design and have preceded the introduction of new engine designs with improved oils to meet such new engine requirements.

Even the less expensive cars of today are capable of road speeds approaching 90 miles per hour. At these speeds the pistons are traveling at a terrific rate and the exhaust valve stems are subjected to great heat. This means that an oil of premium quality is needed to provide safe lubrication to all moving parts of the motor. This new premium oil provides an excellent lubricating film, a tighter seal between the piston rings and cylinder wall, and avoids sticky valves which impair smooth operation and helps motorists to get thousands of miles of trouble-free motoring from their new high-speed cars.

Statutory Claims to Be Paid First

Attorney General Advises Clerks to Withhold "Permissive" Obligations

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Attorney General's office Tuesday advised county clerks to withhold issuing warrants on "permissive" claims until after necessary expenses of the county government had been paid.

The opinion by Assistant Attorney General Guy E. Williams in a letter to County Clerk Cheatham of Ozark, advised him that the county court in making allowances for the year should make ample provisions for statutory or necessary obligations first.

If there be claims left they may be appropriated for contractual claims, the opinion said.

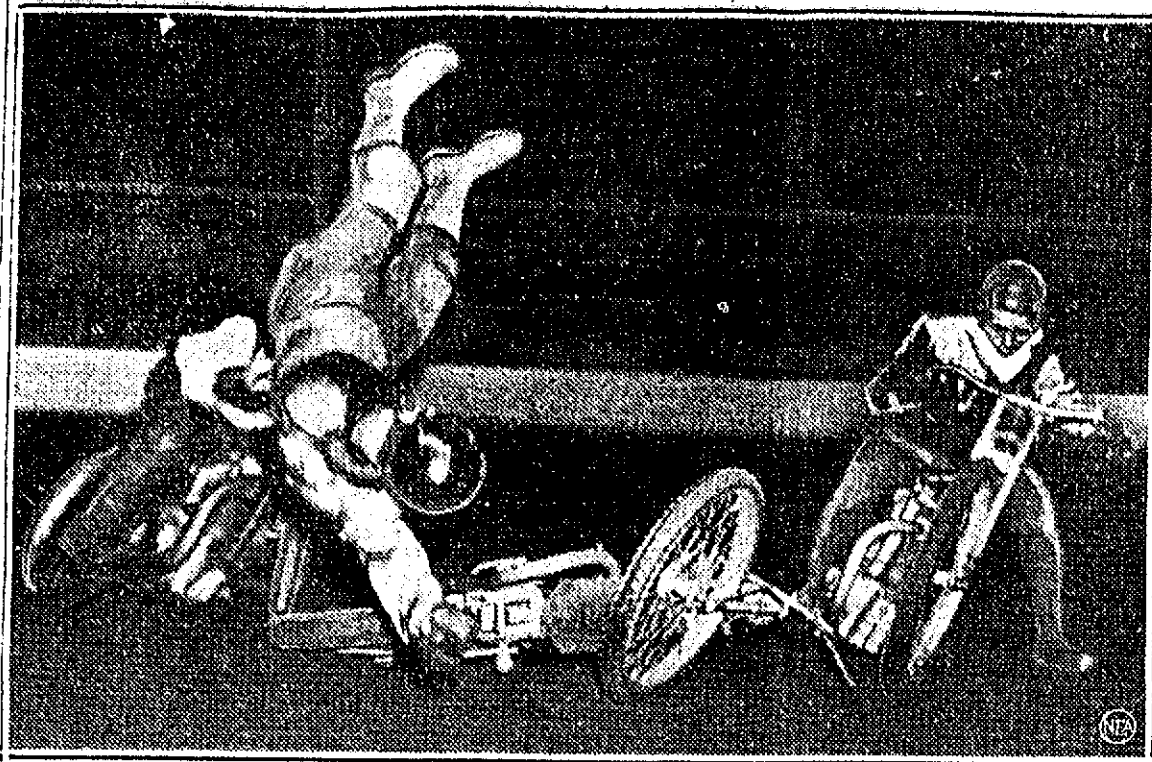

Step Back, Please

"I tell you that I won't have this room," protested the old lady to the bell-boy, who was conducting her. "I ain't going to pay my money for a pig-sty with a measly little foldin' bed in it. If you think that jest because I'm from the country—"

Profoundly disgusted, the boy cut her short. "Get in, mum, get it. This ain't your room, this is the elevator."

It May Be Great Life; but This Would Weaken You

Motorcycle racing may be all it's cracked up to be, but Peewee Gullum would have been hard to convince just at this moment as he sailed from his mount in a spectacular spill at Los Angeles stadium and was caught in this remarkable camera shot as his legs whirled over his head. "Tiny Carroll, right, and Bo Ligman, behind, were making desperate efforts to miss Peewee and his fallen cycle as they whirled around the track."

THE NEW DEAL IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON.—The split between big business-big finance and the Roosevelt administration is now so manifestly complete that it's hard to see how anyone on either side can protest to the contrary and still maintain a straight face.

But the acceptance of this state of affairs by all insiders coincides with a newly reinforced opinion among most New Dealers that it doesn't make much difference.

Although for a year it has been administration policy to compromise and soft-pedal with powerful special interests on the theory that their cooperation was essential to recovery, there is now pronounced belief that the New Deal is about to ride a rising tide of business improvement which will silence criticism and wash away the "lack of confidence" barrier raised by big business-big finance.

Past experience compels one to make the reservation that this New Deal cockiness may have vanished a month from now. One reports it, as of the present.

Council "Help" Crumbles

After the U. S. Chamber of Commerce had loosed an all-embracing broadside at the administration and its congressional program, it was still possible to trot the tycoons of Secretary Dan Roper's Business Advisory Council to the White House with the inference that they were still behind the administration. Subsequent events have demonstrated rapidly that the council which includes chairmen and presidents of our biggest corporations, is for the New Deal only as long as it can steer it around.

After Harry Kendall, its chairman, had agreed with Roosevelt that the council's reports on administration proposals should not be made public without both previous consultation and a council vote, someone quickly leaked to the New York newspapers the council's report slanted at the administration's holding company bill.

Chairman Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of Chase National Bank and a council leader, testified against the administration's banking bill and let it be known that the council had prepared a report against that one, too.

Roosevelt Fights Back

Meanwhile, President Gerard Swopes of General Electric—always active as a council leader, testified against the stock covering distribution to all G. E. stockholders of a pamphlet alleging that the holding company legislation threatened the electrical manufacturing business.

Next the council proposed modification of the present social security program, again taking issue with specific urgings of the administration.

On the other side, Roosevelt has stiffened his back in favor of most of his program. He has given quiet but effective and unexpected support to the Wagner labor disputes bill, which is anathema to big business-big finance; he has pressed harder than ever for the holding company bill and he has branded as "liars" those "high and mighty men" (meaning business men) who seek to wreck the AAA program by misrepresenting the council's recommendations.

How British See It

New Dealers who are convinced recovery and re-election can be had without big business-big finance support are pointing to recent comment by "The Economist" of London, a publication of international prestige.

The hindrance to recovery in the United States are more likely to be found in the financial and economic sphere than in any regulatory functions of governmental bodies, and restoration of profits by a gradual expansion of public demand is likely to do far more to raise the level of business confidence than any abdication by the government of the functions it has assumed in the last two years.

"Present indications are that such expansion is on its way. Whether it will materialize and whether it will prove to be soundly based are the questions upon which the immediate economic future not only of America, but of most of the world, largely depends."

New Dealers who have seen to it that this comment was called to Roosevelt's attention assert that it embodies his present viewpoint.

Liberals Resent Chavez in Senate

Walk Out as He Takes Oath, Honoring Late Bronson Cutting

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—In protest against administration efforts to "drive out of office" the late Senator Bronson Cutting, New Mexico Republican independent, six senate Liberals left the senate Monday as Dennis Chavez, Democrat, was sworn in as his successor.

Unnoticed by Chavez, a former member of the house and one-time executive clerk of the senate, the action was unprecedented.

Those who left were Senators, Johnson, California; Borah, Idaho; Norris, Nebraska; and Nye, North Dakota. Republican independents: La Follette, Wisconsin; Progressive, and Shipstead, Minnesota Farmer-Laborite.

Senator Norris told newspapermen that Cutting, killed in a recent airplane crash, left his party in 1932 to support Roosevelt, and then added: "I left the chamber when Senator Cutting's successor was sworn into office. This was the only way in my helplessness that I could show my condemnation of the disgraceful and unwarranted fight that was made to drive Senator Cutting out of public office."

The Truth Will Out

It was the first time she had been to dinner with them, and they smiled indulgently as she refused a whisky and soda.

"I've never touched it in my life," she explained.

"Why not try?" urged her host.

"See if you like the taste."

She blushed and shyly consented, and he poured her out a mixture, which she delicately raised to her lips.

"Why," she cried, "you've given me Irish!"—Sporting and Dramatic.

The telephone goal of Europe is JUST A GOOD JOB here

The fast, clear, far-reaching telephone service of America has never been equalled by European nations. Differences in equipment, methods and policies have barred the way to such service among the many countries there.

In America, your telephone service has over-leaped state and regional lines. Here there are no telephone boundaries.

Your telephone is "first cousin" to each of 13 million other Bell telephones here. It is designed and manufactured to meet uniform operating standards.

Team-work

Every Bell telephone line, local and long distance, is built to conform to uniform tests of clarity and volume in carrying your voice.

Every Bell telephone operator, whether in New York, in San Francisco, or in the thousands of towns and cities between, is trained to use the same methods . . . the same team-work in operating the vast national communications network.

Organization

That these things are true is due largely to the Bell System form of organization.

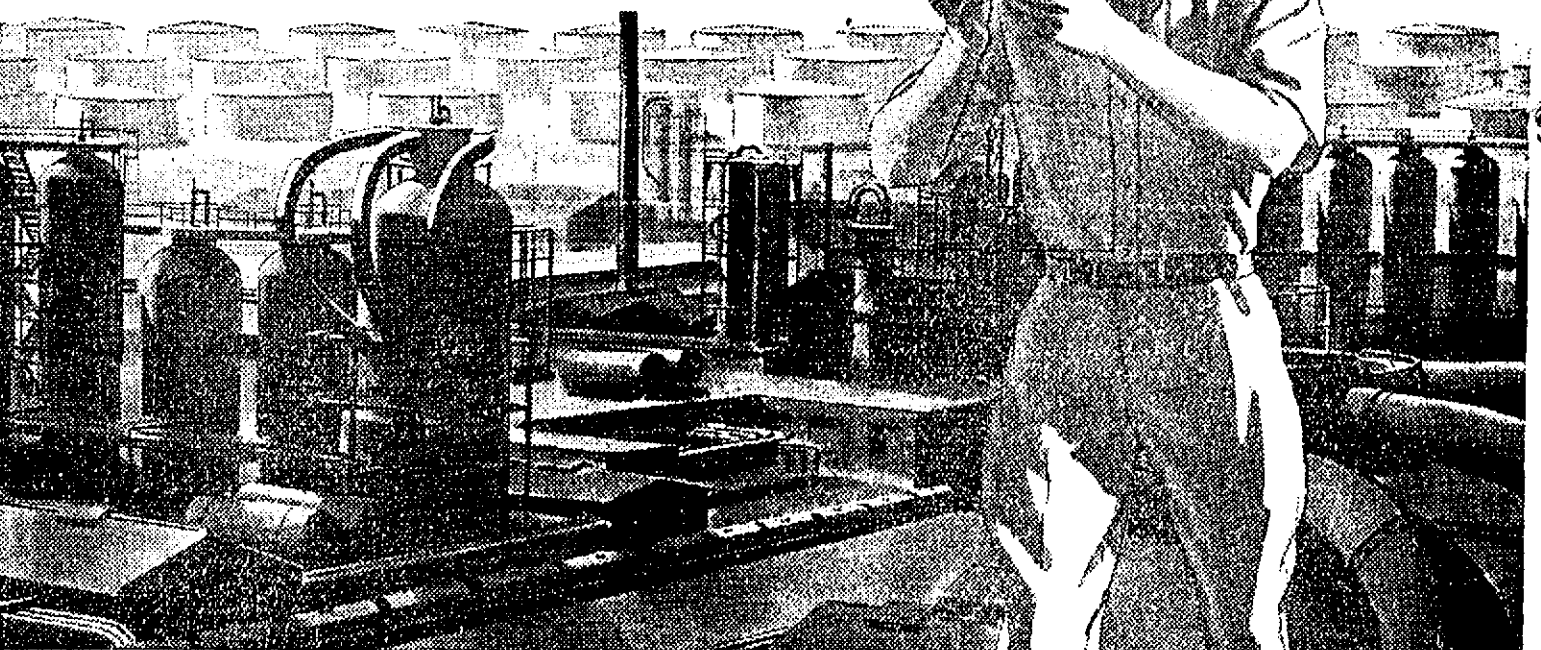

American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the parent company, studies and standardizes better and more economical methods, apparatus and materials for the 24 operating companies of the System. Bell Laboratories carries on the research work. Western Electric manufactures, purchases and distributes.

Without this organization behind them, the Southwestern Bell men and women here who give your telephone service could not do their job so well. For many years it has materially helped us, as one of the group of operating companies, in holding the cost of good telephone service low to the user.

From Gulf's Multi-sol process now comes a PREMIUM MOTOR OIL FOR 25¢

Newly-discovered refining principle puts premium qualities into famous 25¢ oil

TODAY you can go into any Gulf station and buy more motor oil value for a quarter than ever before!

What has happened? Just this . . .

No other 25¢ motor oil gives you all these quality points!

1. It is Multi-sol processed.
2. Its already high mileage has been stepped up 20% to 25%.
3. Highly resistant to oxidation—non-sludging . . . extra long life.
4. It has a high viscosity index—thins out less under heat . . . easy starting year-round. Thoroughly de-waxed.
5. Forms far less carbon.
6. High film strength—a pure mineral oil that will not corrode new alloy bearings.

Gulf has built a giant refinery unit to utilize a new refining process. It is called the Multi-sol Process—and gives Gulf-lube the qualities of a premium oil!

This process employs solvents of opposite actions which act as chemical "policemen" in the oil. They separate the desirable from the undesirable parts of the oil . . . get rid of all the "mischief-making" elements.

Today, no other 25¢ motor oil in America is refined by this process!

And here's what this means to you . . .

With the new Gulf-lube you'll get better motor protection even during the longest, hottest summer runs. You'll get less wear, less carbon, less sludge. You'll save the cost of many a repair and carbon-cleaning bill.

Use Gulf-lube, and you will add less oil between drains. For the Multi-sol Process has stepped up Gulf-lube's already high mileage 20% to 25%!

Try the new Gulf-lube today—only 25c a quart at all Gulf dealers. Your car will know it's a premium oil—but your pocketbook won't!
